MISSION STATEMENT

RELIGION INDEX ONE: PERIODICALS (RIO®)
AND RELIGION INDEX TWO: MULTI-AUTHOR WORKS (RIT®)

It shall be the purpose of RIO® and RIT® to index those articles in the field of religion—particularly religion and religious scholarship in the West—which are germane to research in and serve to document that field. The intended audience includes scholars, teachers, students who are engaged in the study of religion and related fields; clergy; other religious leaders; and the general reader in religion.

PREFACE

Publication of volume 25 of Religion Index One: Periodicals is an occasion for rejoicing and reflection. How far we have come! How much we owe to the dedication and diligence of those who pioneered and persevered in the indexing of periodical literature in religion!

When the first volume of Index to Religious Periodical Literature appeared in 1953, it covered 31 periodical titles from 1949 through 1952. Subsequent volumes appeared in two-year cycles, increasing journal coverage exponentially. Volume 11 (1973-1974) provided 32,265 author and subject entries from 198 periodical titles, along with 10,100 book review citations. As in every volume up to that time, each index entry had been typed individually!

Forty years after the first volume of our indexing appeared, we stand on the threshold of a new era for periodical indexes, peering "through a glass darkly." We cannot see clearly all that the future will bring, but some things seem certain. Just as thousands of small towns on the back roads of America have been bypassed and "left behind" by the Interstate highways, printed indexes are fast becoming "obsolete," an anachronism. Some of us will always prefer to roam the "back roads," seeking to feed our minds, rather than fly down the "information super (toll)way" from one intellectual greasy spoon to another. We may not always have that choice. But we may hope that the ATLA Religion Database, consisting primarily of "data" from RIO and the other ATLA Religion Indexes, will remain a rich and useful oasis of knowledge for researchers in religion—wherever it may be found.

For now, RIO is one "back road" still open, and anyone taking it will find a marvelous feast. Volume 25 has benefited greatly from the technology that is paving the information tollway. We are glad that we did not have to type and read each entry individually, for there are 50,444 of them! We have indexed issues from 425 of the 504 periodical titles that we are regularly scheduled to see. From these and 28 "scan" titles (see page xxiv) we have harvested 15,171 article and contents records. These bibliographic records are distributed in 35,906 subject entries, 13,806 author-editor entries, and 732 Scripture reference entries. There are 7,142 subject cross references and 706 author-editor cross references to light the path to the "right" heading. Of the 504 titles listed in this volume, beginning on page ix, two are new (see page xxiii), six are continued or superseded by a new title, three have suspended publication, and six have ceased publication.

For this volume we have made a concentrated effort to "catch up" with journal titles that for one reason or another we had not seen for some time. Every serials librarian will know well the problems we have. Dr. Steven Holloway has searched Jesuit-Krauss-McCormick Library, Catholic Theological Union, the Oriental Institute, and Regenstein Library at the University of Chicago. Joel Schorn, who has again borne the primary indexing load in this volume, has also spent many hours in the libraries of Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary, Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, and Northwestern University. Thanks to their truly Herculean effort we were able to add 2,497 article and contents records to this volume, with more to come. Some of these citations are dated as early as 1985.

Susie Mendoza keyed all 15,171 records—only once!—in ATLA's new data entry system. Her skill, concentration, and conscientious effort made the transition better for all of us. Karl J. Frantz read it all—every word—made the corrections, and maintained the file. His understanding of the content and the process of RIO are indispensable. Ric D. Hudgens and Annelies G. Moeser have provided indexing on occasion, and at the very end Eric C. Christiansen began his indexing work with us . In addition to maintaining and improving our computer hardware, Carl J. Anderson rebuilt his software to print the "data" we now create with other new software written by Leland Law. Matthew E. Moore designed the new record format that turns our entries into a truly "relational" database. The administration and members of ATLA make this volume possible; the people named here made this volume. The Editor has never had better colleagues in any endeavor. Thanks be to God!
